Indian equity markets are expected to open marginally lower on Wednesday, June 10, 2026, tracking GIFT Nifty at 23,257 — down approximately 46 points (-0.20%) from Tuesday's Nifty futures close — as markets consolidate Tuesday's powerful recovery in a session that demands patience while the diplomatic architecture solidifies overnight. In the most significant de-escalation development since April 8, Israel formally halted all attacks on Iran overnight — Prime Minister Netanyahu confirmed the halt though stopped short of using the word ceasefire — while Iran suspended all operations against Israel, with the conditional caveat that resumption would occur if Israeli strikes in southern Lebanon continued. Iran's Civil Aviation Organization confirmed the country's airspace has returned to "normal conditions" with commercial flight operations expected to resume — a practical normalisation signal that goes beyond military posturing. A top Iranian official told CNN that Tehran has "no problem" pushing forward with peace talks, so long as Iran is confident that the US side is being honest and sincere — the most constructive Iranian diplomatic signal since the MoU framework was confirmed. The MoU remains unsigned — Trump's final approval is still pending — but the halt to direct Iran-Israel exchanges combined with Iran's airspace normalisation and willingness to resume talks represents the most constructive 24-hour diplomatic development since the April 8 ceasefire announcement. GIFT Nifty's 46-point gap-down reflects rational post-rally consolidation rather than a reversal signal — the structural backdrop is decisively improving.

Nifty 50 Performance

Tuesday's Nifty 50 opened at 23,259.05, touched a high of 23,279.40, a low of 23,104.45, and closed at 23,242.10 — up 119.10 points (+0.51%) — snapping the two-session losing streak with the 23,000 floor holding for the second consecutive session. GIFT Nifty at 23,257 signals an open essentially flat to Tuesday's close — the index consolidates the recovery above 23,200 for a second session. RSI recovering toward 40–42 zone from the 35–36 extreme oversold trough — the mean reversion from the most extreme reading of the war cycle is gaining traction. MACD bearish crossover active but histogram expansion arrested — a second consecutive positive or flat close today confirms deceleration. A sustained close above 23,300 today is the first genuine stabilisation signal since the June corrective phase began. "Buy on dips toward 23,100–23,200" is the operative strategy.

Nifty Technical Levels

Support: 23,100, 23,000, 22,800

Resistance: 23,300, 23,500, 23,700

Bank Nifty Performance

Tuesday's Bank Nifty opened at 54,265 — also the day's low — hit a high of 55,318.35, and closed at 55,194.50 — up 1,130.75 points (+2.09%) — the highest close since May 16 and the single strongest session of the June corrective phase. GIFT Nifty's flat indication keeps Bank Nifty opening near 55,194 today. Iran's airspace returning to normal conditions and flight operations resuming is a direct commercial normalisation signal — the most tangible sign of practical de-escalation since the war began. RSI surging toward 55–56 zone from extreme oversold levels — the most powerful single-session RSI recovery of the corrective phase. MACD bullish crossover confirmed on Tuesday — the first since May 25. A close above 55,500 today extends the recovery toward 56,000.

Stocks Drop as AI Trade Falter, Oil Gains on Iran

Asian stocks dropped as technology shares remained under pressure and tensions in the Middle East escalated after US forces struck Iran. Crude oil edged up. The MSCI Asia Pacific Index fell 1% as selling in tech stocks resumed, paring some of Tuesday's rebound, and putting the benchmark on track for a fourth loss in five sessions. South Korea's Kospi, a proxy for artificial intelligence spending, led regional declines, dropping over 2% as chipmakers slid. A gauge of Asian tech stocks dropped 1.9%. Brent crude rose 0.9% to about $92.30 a barrel after US forces hit Iran following the downing of an American helicopter. The gains pared after the US forces said they had completed the strikes. Brent had earlier risen to as high as $93.26 a barrel. The dollar, the haven of choice since the Middle East conflict began, strengthened against almost all its Group-of-10 peers as the attacks threatened the fragile ceasefire as well as efforts to secure a deal to reopen the Strait of Hormuz.

US Strikes Iran After Helicopter Downed, Testing Peace Talks

- US forces carried out strikes against Iran, targeting air defense, ground control stations, and surveillance radar sites near the Strait of Hormuz.
- The strikes were described as a "proportional response to recent attacks on U.S. forces and international commercial ships transiting regional waters" by US Central Command.
- Iran's Foreign Minister Abbas Araghchi said the country "will leave no attack or threat unanswered" and Iran's joint military command said it had targeted "several US bases in the region".

China's Zinc Margins Crushed as Fees Plunge to Record Lows

Chinese zinc smelters are being tested by a worsening feedstock shortage that has driven processing fees to historic lows and wiped out profits. Treatment charges on imported zinc concentrate have slumped to minus $50 a ton, a record low in Fastmarkets data going back a decade. China produces about half the world's refined zinc, used to galvanize steel, but relies heavily on imports of ore. The last time smelters had to contend with negative fees was 2024, which triggered output cuts in order to stem losses.

Cuba Poised for Biggest US Fuel Shipment Since Cold War Embargo

- A Florida trading company is in advanced talks to send Cuba the biggest cargo of US fuel since the Eisenhower administration as the island nation contends with an acute energy crisis.
- The company, Vanguard Energy, is gearing up to export 250,000 barrels of diesel and gasoline, with the fuel designated exclusively for the private sector rather than state actors.
- The shipment will be comprised of 100,000 barrels of gasoline and 150,000 of diesel, which is enough gasoline to supply almost 11 days of typical demand, according to US government estimates.

China's Consumer Inflation Stalls Even as Factory Prices Surge

China's consumer inflation unexpectedly stalled in May even as factory prices gained at the fastest pace in almost four years, as higher commodity costs bring closer the end of a record streak of economy-wide deflation. The consumer-price index climbed 1.2% from a year earlier, rising at the same pace as in the previous month and missing the median estimate of 1.3% in a Bloomberg survey of economists. A 16% plunge in pork prices had a 0.3 percentage-point drag on the CPI, according to data published by the National Bureau of Statistics on Wednesday. Producer inflation accelerated to 3.9% from a year, matching forecasts and up from 2.8% in April. The core CPI, which strips out volatile food and energy prices, also surprised by undershooting expectations and increasing 1.1%, slower than its 1.2% gain in April. The Chinese yuan erased gains against the dollar in onshore trading after the data release. The yield on 10-year government bonds held steady at about 1.7%.
