Indian equity markets are expected to open marginally lower on Tuesday, July 28, 2026. GIFT Nifty is trading at 23,975, down approximately 67 points (-0.28%) from Monday's Nifty futures close, indicating a mild negative start following Monday's sharp 227.55-point rally. Investors remain watchful for follow-through after two consecutive positive sessions, with today's flat-to-weak opening likely reflecting some profit-booking after Monday's strong gains rather than a resumption of the broader correction. Market participants continue to track global cues, US economic data, and domestic earnings season developments, while also watching whether Nifty can sustain above the 23,800 support that has held through the recent stabilization. Technically, a mild gap-down opening keeps the focus on whether buyers step in again near 23,900–23,800, with a hold above this zone needed to keep the recovery structure intact.

Nifty 50 Performance

Monday's Nifty 50 opened at 23,928.40, touched a high of 24,011.60, a low of 23,891.55, and closed at 23,995.00, up 227.55 points (+0.96%) from Friday's close of 23,767.45. GIFT Nifty at 23,975 signals a mild gap-down opening of around 67 points, indicating the index may open near the 23,920–23,940 zone, still within Monday's trading range. RSI closed Monday at the 49 zone, improving but still below the neutral 50 mark, while the MACD remains in a bearish setup despite the strong close-on-close gain, suggesting momentum has yet to turn decisively positive. A hold above 23,800 today would keep the near-term structure constructive, with a subsequent move back above 24,000–24,200 needed to push RSI into positive territory and revive bullish momentum towards 24,500.

Nifty Technical Levels

Support: 23,800, 23,600, 23,400

Resistance: 24,000, 24,200, 24,500

Bank Nifty Performance

Monday's Bank Nifty opened at 57,116.80, touched a high of 57,330.05, a low of 56,928.65, and closed at 57,087.20, up 393.70 points (+0.69%) from Friday's close of 56,693.50. GIFT Nifty's mild negative indication suggests Bank Nifty may open with a similarly modest weak bias, tracking the broader index. The index closed Monday holding above the crucial 57,000 support for a second straight session, though the MACD remains in a bearish crosstown, indicating momentum has not yet fully turned despite the two-session bounce. Immediate support today rests at 57,000, a hold above which would keep the recovery structure intact, while 57,500 remains the key resistance to watch for confirmation of a more durable turnaround.

Bank Nifty Technical Levels

Support: 57,000, 56,500, 56,000

Resistance: 57,500, 58,100, 58,500

Stocks Slump as AI Selloff Accelerates, Bonds Gain

A selloff in chipmakers deepened as mounting doubts over returns from billions of dollars of artificial-intelligence spending rippled through semiconductor stocks from Wall Street to Asia. Bonds extended gains as oil retreated. Asian chip major SK Hynix Inc. slumped as much as 13% and Samsung Electronics Co. fell up to 10%, dragging down South Korea's Kospi Index — a bellwether for AI investments — by 9%. The two companies were the biggest losers in the broader MSCI Asia Pacific equity gauge, which slipped 3%. Japan's Nikkei 225 Stock Average and Taiwan's benchmark gauge fell almost 4%. The Asian losses followed a selloff in chipmakers on Wall Street, which sent a gauge of semiconductors down for a third day. SK Hynix's American depositary receipts fell below their initial public offering price.

Oil Extends Decline as Optimism Over Iran Talks Gains Traction

Oil extended a steep decline after President Donald Trump said that the US and Iran were engaged in talks to try to end the Middle East conflict, with the two sides continuing to hold off on attacks. Global benchmark Brent fell toward $87 a barrel after losing 8.7% on Monday, the most in more than three months. West Texas Intermediate was near $81. President Trump said he decided to pause strikes to give negotiations another chance, according to Axios. He also said there was a "good chance" talks would make progress, in remarks to reporters aboard Air Force One. Still, it remains unclear if any substantial discussions were taking place.

Trump Sees 'Good Chance' of Iran Deal After Pause in Strikes

- President Donald Trump said the US and Iran were engaged in diplomatic talks to end the Middle East conflict, but warned the two sides would return to fighting if negotiations didn't yield a deal.
- Trump's remarks came after the US held off attacking Iran for a third straight day, despite threatening a major new attack last week, and Iran paused strikes on Gulf countries such as Kuwait.
- Iran's Foreign Ministry spokesman, Esmail Baghaei, said no formal negotiations are currently taking place, while Oman and Iran are trying to reach an agreement to restart shipping through the Strait of Hormuz.

China's Beauty Industry Gets AI Makeover to Close Innovation Gap

Shortly before China's Singles' Day shopping festival last fall, beauty company Yatsen Holding Ltd. launched a new serum featuring PDRN, one of skincare's hottest regenerative ingredients. What shoppers didn't see was how quickly it reached shelves. Yatsen used artificial intelligence to compress a development cycle that typically takes more than two years into just six months, including helping researchers narrow more than 50 ingredient candidates to three in a single week. AI is rapidly reshaping China's beauty industry by shrinking every stage of product development. Local companies are using it to sift through millions of social media posts for emerging trends, discover new cosmetic ingredients with biotechnology partners and bring products to market in months, rather than years.

Chip Rout Deepens on Circular Funding, China Competition Fears

A selloff in global semiconductor stocks deepened on Tuesday, as investor sentiment continued to worsen over the sustainability of the artificial intelligence boom. South Korea's benchmark Kospi declined as much as 9.6%, triggering a 20-minute trading suspension by the stock exchange, with memory powerhouses Samsung Electronics Co. and SK Hynix Inc. slumping at least 11% each. Japan's chip-heavy Nikkei 225 Stock Average and Taiwan's Taiex declined more than 4%. The losses point to deepening concerns over crowded equity positioning and rising corporate debt levels as the AI buildout progresses. Nvidia Corp.'s fresh round of deals worth more than $750 billion has helped trigger worry over artificially inflated demand for AI. Technological advances from Chinese peers are adding another layer of pressure to already-stretched markets.
